Subject: Chat with Caleb Pritchard
From: Caleb Pritchard <cpritchard2001@gmail.com>
To: barriticus@gmail.com

Caleb: I've spent the last four days trying to figure out how to make the first sentences of my paragraphs structurally distinct from the rest of this essay I'm writing.
Caleb: Then, like a bolt of inspirado, it hit me: The 'tab' key.
me: bravo
Caleb: Think it'll ever catch on?
me: no
Caleb: Heavy.
Caleb: How's Melvin?
me: black
Caleb: Just how I like 'em.
Caleb: How's Straub?
me: black
Caleb: Just how I like 'em.
Caleb: How's your imaginary girlfriend?
me: black
me: I mean, really white me: insomuch as that she's a scientist
Caleb: Is she a Real Doll?
Caleb: Or a real doll!? me: little from column a